25X1X

1. The Rathenow (N 53/2 15) airfield, north of the Wolzen Lake was again occupied on 11 July 1950. There were seventeen U-2 biplanes and two single-engine, low-wing monoplanes at the field. The latter type had an in-line engine, a three-bladed propeller, angular wing tips, a cockpit between the edges of the wings, an antenna rod apparently at the trailing edge of the cockpit, a landing gear which retracted to the rear, and a retractable tail wheel. *

25X1A * [REDACTED] Comment. To date, the airfield has been unoccupied. It is not known to which units the aircraft are assigned. The type of the single-engine low-wing monoplanes cannot be determined. It is assumed that they are IL-2s or IL-10s since their landing gears retract to the rear.
